

Are you a quarreling party?
Or a spoiled child? Or may be a smart guest?
Answer these questions and discover what kind of traveler you are.

Have fun!

1) Why would you like to travel abroad?

- To study at a well-known institution
- To have a great time and experience my friends
- To have lots of free time
- To meet the people there

2) How do you choose your programme abroad?

- The research I do, the educational standard and talk to several people before you take a decision.
- The friend's advice because they had a great time
- My best chance for income
- I like to travel at all the expenses I can but have to remember I'll be on a budget.

3) What's the most important feature about a quality programme?

- The content
- Having fun
- A large bedroom with a cozy bed
- The access to excursions and the group leader

4) What do you expect from your relationship with your host family?

- Although I would prefer to chat with them, my best idea is to study
- I think it is nice to meet with them and eat at the table with them together, why not
- My family is so far so they feed me and don't let me stay alone
- I don't see the opportunity to live with an English family, take them a present from my country and be in contact later on.

5) Would you like partying while abroad?

- Of course, but only after exams or when I don't have much to study
- Of course! I love going to the pub and dance. You live my way.
- Yes, it's great to go out but not for too long, please.
- Yes, it's a great opportunity to meet people and understand the culture.

6) How do you prefer to meet your international classmates?

- Yes, it's great to get together with classmates and study
- Obviously, I would not sit alone in a long group room.
- I don't like long playing games on my phone.
- Yes, it's better to meet people from other cultures and learn about them.

7) Do you like visiting tourist attractions?

- Yes, why? I don't have to study much and they let me get some interesting information
- Absolutely, there's no chance to take any selfies and share them with friends on Facebook.
- Yes, but from the plane when we landing, I'll take photos during my my phone and on my laptop.
- Absolutely, they will let me see to go to these famous places I can't go to in my home country.

Results

(Not visible when the page was on the website)

1. If most of your answers are A you are The nerd
You travel by yourself because you love the opportunity to attend the course abroad, improve your academic level and do lots of research before your departure. You buy the books and a dictionary to do your best. You know exactly what travel is, search in every section and do all your homework. On weekends you enjoy visiting museums and historical places to expand your knowledge of the new culture.
2. If most of your answers are B you are a Party queen/king
You grab the opportunity to travel abroad with a group because it shows up your mind. It's the opportunity of your life. You travel abroad and enjoy, do things as possible. Stay in an expensive hotel and have a research paper to show off on Facebook. You look for scholarships and relatives financial support to achieve your dream.
3. If most of your answers are C you are a Spoiled child
You have traveled abroad many times but they're just a course you attend because your parents have asked you to do so and pay for everything. Though not very enthusiastic about it, you grab the opportunity because it will let you get to add it to your CV.
4. If most of your answers are D you are The dreamer
You have dreamt of traveling abroad for a long time, you have saved your money but you're scared of traveling abroad by yourself so you join a group and have a great time and live on a budget. You sightsee the new places with a awe.